

TULSANS URGED TO GO AFTER COLLEGE

Methodists Willing to Locate New School Here if Proper Inducement
Is Given.

Whether Tulsa is to become the home of one of the greatest schools of southern Methodism will depend entirely upon the interest manifested locally in the proposition between now and the time a decision as to location is reached by the commission that has jurisdiction over the matter according to a statement made by Dr. L. S. Barton, pastor of the Boston Avenue Methodist church, and one of the commissioners, Saturday.

Dr. Barton states that the school will absolutely go to the town that presents the best inducements. Glendale and Oklahoma City are both active now, he said. If Tulsa wants the school the proposition should be put in some definite form by January 1, as Dr. Barton anticipates that the board will be called in session by Bishop Edwin D. Mouton some time early in 1920. Headquarters will be opened in Oklahoma in charge of the secretary.

A site of at least 50 acres is required. In the opinion of Dr. Barton, the east side of the state stands the best chance to secure the university, providing sufficient inducements are offered. Oklahoma City is located too near the state university and the center of population is now and will always be on the east side. Four of the commissioners having jurisdiction live on the east side and four on the west side. Tulsa has two representatives in Dr. Barton and H. G. Barnard.

Southern Methodists are raising $2,000,000 for the purpose of education this year and of this amount between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 will be apportioned to Oklahoma. In addition to this the churches of the state will subscribe $1,000,000.

COOKS TO TALK MOOSE

Joe Parson, Inspector Lodge Home for Orphan Children.

Ray Harold Cooks, pastor of Tipton Memorial church, will address members of the Moose lodge tonight on Moosehood, the home of the lodge near Chicago, which he founded last week. The lodge owns 1,000 acres there and is caring for 103 orphan children of dead members in a body.
